TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE.

By Appointment.

The Art Galleries are the chief architectural glory of Kelvingrove Park, a well-laid-out area of 91 acres acquired by the Corporation in 1852, and added to from time to time. They were erected in 1901 from the plans of Mr. John W. Simpson and Mr. Milner Allan, at a cost of £250,000. The building is 448 feet long and 256 feet wide, the central towers rising to a height of 172 feet, and in it are stored many famous art treasures.
